Industries(FGI) Auditorium
Gotri-Sevasi Road, Khanpur,
Near Sevasi, Vadodara

Scope & Objective

Corrosion is the key area of concern in the World Economy. In addition to causing severe damage and threats to public safety, corrosion disrupts operations & quality of products and requires extensive repairs & replacement of failed assets. These expenses can be brought down to half if good corrosion management practices are followed; this offers a huge opportunity to save cost and also enhance the life of products, plant & machinery, and civil structures.

The global cost of corrosion is estimated to be US$2.5 trillion, which is equivalent to 3.4% of the global GDP (2013). By using available corrosion control practices, it is estimated that savings of between 15 and 35% of the cost of corrosion could be realized; i.e. between US$375 and $875 billion annually on a global basis.

These costs typically do not include individual safety or environmental consequences. Through near misses, incidents, forced shutdowns (outages), accidents, etc., several industries have come to realize that lack of corrosion management can be very costly and that, through proper corrosion management, significant cost savings can be achieved over the lifetime of an asset.

To achieve the full extent of these savings, corrosion management and its integration into an organization's management system must be accomplished by implementing a Corrosion Management System (CMS).

The success of initiatives like TPM, Quality, and Energy etc., have been possible as every industry/Organization has a team or representative on these subjects, who undertakes implementation of good practices in order to improve product quality, reduce energy consumption, reduce maintenance cost, increase productivity etc.

In order to support Indian Industry & other stakeholders to better deal with corrosion & its management, IIM Baroda Chapter proposes to bring all stakeholders together and discuss, draw road map and action plan for further interventions to achieve significant reduction in corrosion related losses.

AMPP GUJARAT CHAPTER

The AMPP Gujarat Chapter was established on September 19, 2024, and has been officially recognized as part of AMPP's global framework. The chapter will serve as an active branch of AMPP, dedicated to promoting corrosion awareness, protection, and control within Gujarat. Its primary focus will be on the regions of Gujarat, Rajasthan, and parts of Maharashtra. Gujarat, a key manufacturing hub in India, is renowned for its chemical, petrochemical, refinery, and engineering industries. By addressing the unique needs of these sectors, the chapter will offer specialized training in corrosion control techniques. Through its activities, the AMPP Gujarat Chapter aims to foster knowledge sharing and collaboration among professionals, strengthening its impact on both national and international levels.
